

Shannon Hochman is an LGBT historical fiction writer and illustrator. He holds a BFA from Manhattan's School of Visual Arts and an MFA from the Savannah College of Art and Design. Shannon loves detailed ink work, history, and vintage aesthetics. Though he's lived all over, he currently calls Chicago home.

I LOVE historical fiction, or anything with a vintage aesthetic. I'm game for both children and adults, or even non-fiction in need of art. I'd especially like a chapter book that requires illustrations or ornate bookplates. A decorative or character-driven book jacket would also rock.
